Sacramento Metro Chamber honors SMUD's previous General Manager

Jan Schori wins Businesswoman of the Year award

The Sacramento Municipal Utility District's (SMUD) former General Manager Jan Schori received a top honor from the Sacramento Metro Chamber as a result of her service to the utility company.

Schori was honored with the Businesswoman of the Year award which recognizes the contributions of an individual to the growth of her enterprise. Under the stewardship of former General Manager Jan Schori, SMUD earned high ratings nationally in customer appreciation while electricity rates remained among the lowest in California.

"In her 14 years of service as the general manager, Jan reinvented the way SMUD provides service to our customers, pioneered the use of solar and wind for customers, and raised the power system's reliability performance," said current SMUD General Manager & CEO John DiStasio.

Schori served as SMUD's general manager from 1994 through April 2008. She started at the utility in 1979 as a staff attorney, becoming general counsel in 1990, serving in that capacity until being named general manager.
